

American import RVs/ motorhome

USA manufactured motorhomes (“RVs”) are typically much larger than equivalent UK/European manufactured Coachbuilt or Class A motorhomes; those with “slideouts” can make the already ample habitation unit even larger. Interiors are extremely spacious and typically high quality, although sometimes are considered somewhat brash by European customers.

The engine capacity of USA motorhomes is usually in excess of 4,500cc, and as high as 9,000cc. Most are also petrol fuelled, resulting in economy readings of single figure miles per gallon.

As with A-Class motorhomes, windscreen replacement claims can cost as much as £2,000 - £3,000.

USA manufactured motorhomes should always be assumed to be left-hand drive unless proven otherwise.
