

Micro motorhomes

Micro motorhomes are the smallest vehicles of any of the categories.

These motorhomes are based on small cars or car-derived vans; car derived vans have a maximum laden weight not exceeding two tonnes.

Due to the limited accommodation area, many of these are single berth with a pop-top roof, with only very basic cooking and storage facilities.

In light of the relative practicality of these motorhomes for drivers who rarely carry rear passengers, it is often the case that they may be used as sole 'everyday' transport by the owner.
