WHY PROGRESS PAYMENT FINANCING?

With Global Jet Capital as your financing partner, you have the flexibility to fold progress payments into your permanent financing structure—and put your capital to work elsewhere...

Put a cap on your capital overlays.

Building a new aircraft can be a multi-year process. Manufacturers require that installment payments be made to cover cost of materials and manufacturing. We can help you finance these installments—generally referred to as progress payments. When the aircraft delivers, we can seamlessly roll the investment into the term product of your choice—operating lease, a finance lease or loan. Only offered by providers specialized in business aviation such as Global Jet Capital, progress payment financing allows you to minimize the amount of capital tied up in the period prior to delivery.
