
BEST FINANCIAL APPS

Mint, for general money management

- This app is for you if: You want to know how much money you have at any given time across multiple accounts and cards.
- Cost: Free

EveryDollar, for zero-based budgeting

- This app is for you if: You want to track spending and plan for purchases. Zero-based budgeting is a method where your expenses equal your income.
- Cost: Free

You need a budget, for paying off debt

- This app is for you if: Every other attempt you've made to get your budget in check has left you frustrated and hopeless.
- Cost: First month free, then $11.89/month

Wally, for tracking expenses

- This app is for you if: Your previous attempts to track expenses were abandoned within a month because you didn't like entering them. You can take a photo of your receipts instead of manually entering numbers.
- Cost: Free

Acorns, for investing spare change

- This app is for you if: You have never owned a share of stock because you thought you didn't have enough money to invest. Wouldn't you love to find an extra $300 or $500 in your investment account each year?
- Cost: Free