

Does AssetProtect cover my personal property?

Your property manager has chosen to include coverage for your personal belongings through AssetProtect with a coverage limit of $10,000. The coverage extends to specified named perils and may be narrower than a traditional renters insurance policy. Full coverage details can be found in the Evidence of Insurance provided.

If I don't choose AssetProtect, what am I required to do?

Initial the addendum in your lease documents, then furnish evidence that you obtained insurance through another carrier prior to occupancy of your home.

If you choose another carrier, you must:

1. List the management company as the Additional Interest.
2. Pay the premium in full (pre-pay premium for the term of the lease).

Failure to obtain this insurance, or letting it lapse, puts you in breach of your lease agreement. Your management company may then purchase the required insurance on your behalf, and you will be responsible for reimbursement of all costs and expenses.

How do I pay my AssetProtect premium?

Your AssetProtect premium will be itemized and included with your monthly rent payment.
