

What Are the Benefits of Vendor Managed Inventory (VMI) Services?

How much time do you spend managing, ordering and organizing packaging materials for your products?

If you're bogged down with packaging, vendor managed inventory (VMI) could be a great solution.

What Will I Get With VMI Services From M-Line?

Stop spending valuable time thinking about your packaging, and let us take care of it. Our VMI services will help you reclaim your time.

- Eliminate stock-outs and rush orders: Your packaging levels will always be just right, so there are no unexpected surprises.
- Better organization: We take care and keep track of everything for you.
- Less budget tied up in idle inventory: Only purchase what you need, when you need it.
- Less labor spent on purchasing, planning and scheduling: We'll do all the work!
- Receive fewer shipments: Stop coordinating delivery schedules.
- Fewer invoices to process and pay: More time back in your day and less paperwork to deal with.

How Does It Work?

01

We'll set up an initial consultation at your company to determine what packaging we'll monitor, and set appropriate min/max levels.

02

An employee from M-Line will come to your company as needed to take inventory and compare it to min/max levels.

03

Any products that are running low will automatically ship to you with a blanket purchase order in 1-2 days.

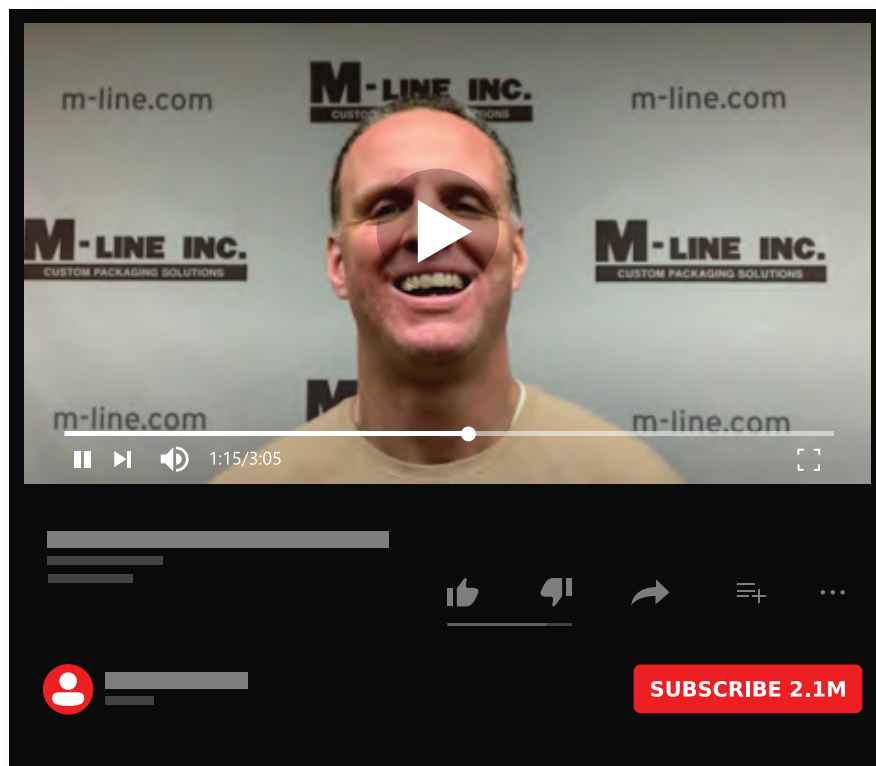

We offer multiple purchase order and billing options to suit your needs, and all parts of the process are tailored specifically to the way you work. Let us take care of the packaging work for you!

"It's a one-stop-shop in terms of turnkey solutions. We have quite a bit to manage when we're launching new programs and we can just toss the entire packaging element over the wall to M-Line. We know it's in good hands and one less thing for us to worry about."

- Tom R., supply chain manager, medical device manufacturing company
