

CLEARSPACE GROUP HELPS WORLD ANIMAL PROTECTION TO PREPARE THEIR OFFICES FOR THE RETURN OF THEIR EMPLOYEES

THE HIGHLIGHTS

In compliance with government guidelines, the staff at World Animal Protection adopted a work from home policy at the start of first lockdown in 2020.

It worked successfully and employees continued to work from home for the following fifteen months. In May 2021, and with the easing of lockdown measures, their Office/Health & Safety Manager was tasked with preparing the office environment for the safe return of employees to the workplace. As a part of this process, all items, personal and business, in and around desks, filing cabinets and meeting rooms - were required to be removed from site so that a deep clean of the facilities could take place.

150

staff members

300

crates

300 boxes

World Animal Protection are a global charity with 14 offices worldwide. They've been established for over 50 years with a mission to end needless suffering to animals.

THE FEEDBACK

Krisztina Foster, Office and Health & Safety Manager at the Charity commented; "I knew what needed to be done but the how was unclear, as we had a very specific requirement. The office was frozen in time as a result of everyone going to work from home quite suddenly at the start of the pandemic. I approached ClearSpace Group having found them on LinkedIn and immediately relaxed during our initial discussion as they understood exactly what we needed. They put forward an approach which worked for us. Their process was slick, nothing was lost and the office has now been cleared in an organised manner ready for us to undertake a deep clean. ClearSpace Group were respectful of everyone's personal items and office property and we didn't have to lift a finger! I would recommend them to anyone looking to do a similar exercise."