

Act C of 2012 on the Criminal Code

The National Assembly, with a view to protecting the inviolable and inalienable fundamental rights of human beings, as well as the independence, territorial integrity, economy and national assets of the country, taking into account the obligations of Hungary under international and European Union law, for the purpose of exerting the State's exclusive criminal jurisdiction, adopts the following Act:

GENERAL PART

CHAPTER I

FUNDAMENTAL PROVISIONS

Principle of legality

Section 1 (1) The criminal liability of the perpetrator shall be established only for an act which was punishable under an Act at the time of commission, except for acts punishable under the generally recognised rules of international law.

(2) No penalty shall be imposed and no measure shall be applied due to committing a criminal offence if it was not provided for by an Act at the time of commission or, if section 2 (2) is applied, of adjudication.

CHAPTER II

HUNGARIAN CRIMINAL JURISDICTION

Temporal scope

Section 2 (1) A criminal offence shall be adjudicated under the criminal law in force at the time of commission, with the exceptions specified in paragraphs (2) to (3).

(2) If an act is not a criminal offence under the new criminal law in force at the time of adjudicating the act, or is to be adjudged more leniently, the new criminal law shall apply.

(3) The new criminal law shall apply retroactively for adjudicating an act punishable under the generally recognised rules of international law if the act was not punishable under the Hungarian criminal law at the time of commission.

Territorial and personal scope

Section 3 (1) Hungarian criminal law shall apply to

- a) criminal offences committed in Hungary,
- b) criminal offences committed on vessels flying the flag of Hungary or on aircraft flying the flag of Hungary being outside the territory of Hungary,
- c) acts committed by Hungarian nationals abroad if the act constitutes a criminal offence under Hungarian law.

(2) Hungarian criminal law shall apply to

- a) acts committed by persons other than Hungarian nationals abroad if the act
 - aa) constitutes a criminal offence under Hungarian law and is also punishable under the law of the place where it was committed, ab) is a criminal offence against the State, except for espionage against allied armed forces and espionage against the institutions of the European Union, whether or not the act is punishable under the law applicable to the locality where it was committed,

ac) is a criminal offence defined in Chapter XIII or XIV, or any other criminal offence to be prosecuted under an international treaty promulgated by an Act,

b) acts committed by persons other than Hungarian nationals abroad against a Hungarian national, or a legal person or other legal entity without legal personality established under Hungarian law, which are punishable under the Hungarian law.

(3) In the cases specified in paragraph (2), the criminal proceedings shall be launched by the Prosecutor General.

CHAPTER III

CRIMINAL LIABILITY

Criminal offence

Section 4 (1) A criminal offence shall mean an act committed intentionally or, where negligent commission is punishable under this Act, negligently which is a danger to society and is subject to punishment under this Act.

(2) An activity or omission shall constitute an act that is dangerous to society if it harms or endangers the person or rights of others or the social, economic or state order of Hungary as laid down by the Fundamental Law.

Section 5 A criminal offence shall be a felony or a misdemeanour. A felony shall mean an intentional criminal offence which is punishable by a penalty of over two years of imprisonment under this Act, and any other criminal offence shall constitute a misdemeanour.

Concurrence of criminal offences and continuous criminal offences

Section 6 (1) Concurrence of criminal offences means that one or more acts by the perpetrator constitute more than one criminal offence, and they are adjudicated in a single proceeding.

(2) If the perpetrator commits the same criminal offence against the same aggrieved party with the same determination multiple times at short intervals, it shall constitute a continuous criminal offence instead of concurrence.

Intent

Section 7 A criminal offence shall be considered intentional if the perpetrator desired or accepted the consequences of his act.

Negligence

Section 8 A criminal offence shall be considered negligent if the perpetrator foresees the possible consequences of his act but recklessly trusts that they would not take place, or if he cannot foresee the possible consequences of his act because he fails to exercise the care or circumspection expected of him.

Liability for result as a qualifying circumstance

Section 9 The more severe legal consequences attached to the result of a criminal offence, as a qualifying circumstance, shall only be applied if the perpetrator was at least negligent regarding the result.

Attempt

Section 10 (1) A person shall be punishable for attempt if he commenced but did not complete the commission of an intentional criminal offence.

(2) An attempt shall be subject to the same penalty range as the completed criminal offence.

(3) The punishment may be reduced without limitation or dispensed with if the attempt was made on an unsuitable object, with an unsuitable instrument, or in an unsuitable manner.

(4) A person shall not be liable to punishment for attempt if

- a) the criminal offence is not completed due to his voluntary abandonment, or
- b) he voluntarily averts the occurrence of the result.

(5) If, in a case specified in paragraph (4), the attempt constitutes a criminal offence in and of itself, the perpetrator shall be punished for that criminal offence.

Preparation

Section 11 (1) If specifically required by this Act, a person shall be punishable for preparation if, for the purpose of committing a criminal offence, he provides the conditions necessary for it or facilitating it, or invites, offers or undertakes to commit, or agrees to commit jointly, the criminal offence.

(2) A person shall not be liable to punishment for preparation if

- a) the commission of the criminal offence is not commenced due to his voluntary abandonment, or
- b) he withdraws his earlier invitation, offer, or undertaking in order to avert commission, or seeks to have the other participants abandon the commission, provided that the commission of the criminal offence is not commenced for any reason, or
- c) he reports the preparation to the authority before the commission of the criminal offence is commenced.

(3) If, in a case specified in paragraph (2), the preparation constitutes a criminal offence in and of itself, the perpetrator shall be punished for that criminal offence.

The perpetrator

Section 12 Offenders, indirect offenders, and joint offenders (hereinafter jointly the “offenders”), and instigators and abettors (hereinafter jointly the “accessories”) shall be the perpetrators.

Section 13 (1) Offender means a person who fulfils the statutory elements of a criminal offence.

(2) Indirect offender means a person who fulfils the statutory elements of an intentional criminal offence by using a person who is not liable to punishment for this act due to infancy, mental disorder, coercion or threat, or is in error.

(3) Joint offenders mean persons who fulfil the statutory elements of an intentional criminal offence jointly and with knowledge of the activities of each other.

Section 14 (1) Instigator means a person who intentionally induces another person to commit a criminal offence.

(2) Abettor means a person who intentionally provides assistance for the commission of a criminal offence.

(3) Accessories shall be subject to the same penalty range as offenders.

CHAPTER IV

REASONS FOR EXCLUDING OR LIMITING LIABILITY TO PUNISHMENT

Section 15 The perpetrator's liability to punishment or the punishability of an act shall be excluded or limited by the following:

- a) infancy,
- b) mental disorder,
- c) coercion or threat,
- d) error,
- e) justifiable defence,
- f) necessity,
- g) permission by law,
- h) any other reason specified in an Act.

Infancy

Section 16 A person shall not be liable to punishment if he has not attained the age of fourteen years when committing the punishable act, except for homicide [section 160 (1) to (2)], homicide in the heat of passion (section 161), causing bodily harm [section 164 (8)], terrorist act [section 314 (1) to (4)], robbery [section 365 (1) to (4)], or robbery of a vulnerable person [section 366 (2) to (3)], provided that the perpetrator has attained the age of twelve years when committing the criminal offence, and he possessed the faculties required to recognise the consequences of the criminal offence at the time of commission.

Mental disorder

Section 17 (1) A person shall not be liable to punishment if he commits the punishable act in a state of mental disorder that renders him unable to recognise the consequences of his act or to act according to such recognition.

(2) The punishment may be reduced without limitation if his mental disorder limits the ability of the perpetrator to recognise the consequences of his act or to act according to such recognition.

Section 18 Section 17 shall not apply to a person who commits a criminal offence in a drunken or otherwise intoxicated state induced due to his own fault.

Coercion and threat

Section 19 (1) A person shall not be liable to punishment if he commits a punishable act under coercion or threat which prevents him from acting in line with his own will.

Error

Section 20 (1) A perpetrator shall not be liable to punishment for a fact of which he was not aware at the time of commission.

(2) A person shall not be liable to punishment if he commits a punishable act under the false assumption that the act is not a danger to society, and he has a reasonable ground for this assumption.

(3) Liability to punishment shall not be excluded by error if the error is due to negligence, and negligent commission is punishable under this Act.

Justifiable defence

Section 21 A person's act shall not be punishable if he harms an illegal attacker using a means of defence that is not capable of killing a person, installed for the purpose of preventing illegal attacks against his own person or property, or that of other persons, provided that the defending person took all measures which can be expected of him under the circumstances, to prevent that harm be caused by the installed means of defence.

Section 22 (1) A person's act shall not be punishable if it is necessary to avert an actual or imminent illegal attack against his own person or property or that of another person or persons, or against the interest of the public.

(2) An illegal attack shall be deemed to be directed against the life of the defending person if

- a) it is committed against a person

(3) A person shall not be liable to punishment if he exceeds the necessary extent of averting due to fright or excusable excitement.

(4) A person under attack shall not be required to escape from the illegal attack.

Necessity

Section 23 (1) A person's act shall not be punishable if he saves his own person or property, or that of another person from an imminent danger that cannot be averted by any other means, or if he acts to protect the interest of the public, provided that his action does not cause any harm greater than what he sought to avert.

(2) A person shall not be liable to punishment for causing harm greater than what he sought to avert if he did not recognise the scale of the harm due to his fright or excusable excitement.

(3) Necessity shall not be taken into account to the benefit of a person who is at fault in causing the danger, or who is obliged to take the risk of danger by virtue of his profession.

Permission by law

Section 24 An act shall not be punishable if it is permitted, or is declared to be without punishment, by law.

CHAPTER V

REASONS FOR TERMINATING LIABILITY TO PUNISHMENT

Section 25 Liability to punishment shall be terminated by

- a) the death of the perpetrator,
- b) statute of limitations,
- c) pardon,
- d) active repentance,
- e) another reason specified in an Act.

Statute of limitations regarding liability to punishment

Section 26 (1) With the exceptions specified in paragraphs (2) to (3) and unless otherwise provided in the Act excluding the statute of limitations for certain criminal offences, liability to punishment shall become statute-barred after a period corresponding to the maximum of the penalty range, but at least after five years.

(2) For criminal offences specified in Chapter XXVII, liability to punishment shall become statute-barred after twelve years.

(3) Liability to punishment shall not become statute-barred for criminal offences

- a) specified in Chapters XIII and XIV,
- b) that may be punished also by life imprisonment, and
- c) specified in Chapter XIX and punishable by more than five years of imprisonment if the aggrieved party of the criminal offence had not attained the age of eighteen years when the criminal offence was committed.

Section 27 The first day of the limitation period shall be

- a) for a completed criminal offence, the day when the statutory elements are fulfilled,
- b) for an attempt and preparation, the day when the act constituting the attempt or preparation is finished,
- c) for a criminal offence that is committed solely by failing to perform an obligation, the day when the perpetrator could still perform his obligation without any consequence under this Act,
- d) for a criminal offence that is committed by maintaining an illegal state of affairs, the day when this state of affairs terminates.

Section 28 (1) The limitation period shall be interrupted if the court, prosecution service, investigating authority, or, in a case with an international dimension, the minister responsible for justice or a foreign authority takes any criminal procedural action against the perpetrator due to the criminal offence. The limitation period shall start again on the day of interruption.

(1a) If the aggrieved party of homicide in the heat of passion, of intentionally causing grievous bodily harm if punishable by more than three years of imprisonment, of kidnapping, of trafficking in human beings, of violation of personal freedom, or, with the exception specified in section 26 (3) c), of a criminal offence against the freedom of sexual life and sexual morality had not yet attained the age of eighteen years when the criminal offence was committed, the limitation period shall not include the period left until the aggrieved party attains or would have attained the age of eighteen years.

(2) If criminal proceedings are suspended, the limitation period shall not include the period of suspension. This provision shall not apply if criminal proceedings are suspended because the perpetrator could not be identified during the investigation, his whereabouts are unknown or he became affected by a mental disorder, or if the whereabouts of the defendant at liberty abroad are known and criminal proceedings cannot be conducted in his absence.

(3) The limitation period shall not include any period during which criminal proceedings could not have been commenced or continued due to immunity arising from public office, because the immunity based on an Act was not lifted by the entity authorised to decide on the matter. This provision shall not apply to criminal offences punishable on the basis of a private motion, where a private prosecuting party represents prosecution.

(4) The limitation period shall not include the probationary period if release on probation is ordered, and the period of reparation work.

Active repentance

Section 29 (1) A person shall not be liable to punishment if he confessed to the commission of a misdemeanour, or a felony punishable by not more than three years of imprisonment, against life, physical integrity and health, human freedom, human dignity and certain fundamental rights, property or intellectual property, or of a traffic-related misdemeanour or felony punishable by not more than three years of imprisonment before being indicted, and made reparation for the harm caused by the criminal offence in a manner and to the extent accepted by the aggrieved party in the course of a mediation procedure, or prior to a mediation procedure but as approved by the agreement concluded during the mediation procedure. This provision shall also apply if the criminal offence committed against life, physical integrity and health, human freedom, human dignity and certain fundamental rights, property or intellectual property, or the traffic-related criminal offence, is the dominant criminal offence of those constituting concurrence.

(2) The punishment may be reduced without limitation if, for criminal offences specified in paragraph (1), the perpetrator confessed to the commission of a felony punishable by not more than five years of imprisonment before being indicted, and made reparation for the harm caused by the criminal offence in a manner and to the extent accepted by the aggrieved party in the course of a mediation procedure, or prior to a mediation procedure but as approved by the agreement concluded during the mediation procedure. This provision shall also apply if the criminal offence committed against life, physical integrity and health, human freedom, human dignity and certain fundamental rights, property or intellectual property, or the traffic-related criminal offence, is the dominant criminal offence of those constituting concurrence.

(3) Paragraphs (1) to (2) shall not apply if

a) the perpetrator is a multiple or special recidivist,
b) the perpetrator committed the criminal offence in a criminal organisation,
c) the criminal offence caused death,
d) the perpetrator committed the intentional criminal offence during the probationary period of a suspended imprisonment or after being sentenced to imprisonment to be served for committing an intentional criminal offence, but before enforcement of the sentence was completed, or during the period of release on probation or conditional suspension by a prosecutor, or

e) the perpetrator earlier participated in a mediation procedure due to committing an intentional criminal offence and, for this reason, paragraph (1) or (2) was applied to him, provided that less than two years passed between the decision reaching administrative finality and the commission of the subsequent intentional criminal offence.

CHAPTER VI

OTHER OBSTACLES TO ESTABLISHING CRIMINAL LIABILITY

Section 30 The absence of

- a) private motion,
- b) crime report

shall be an obstacle to establishing criminal liability.

Absence of private motion

Section 31 (1) In the cases specified in this Act, the perpetrator of a criminal offence may only be punished upon a private motion.

(2) The aggrieved party shall be entitled to file a private motion.

(3) In the cases specified in section 69 (5) of the Act XC of 2017 on the Code of Criminal Procedure, only the statutory representative of the aggrieved party may file the private motion. CHAPTER IX

SENTENCING

The objective of punishment

Section 79 The objective of punishment shall be, in the interest of the protection of society, to prevent the perpetrator or any other person from committing a criminal offence.

The principles of sentencing

Section 80 (1) Punishment shall be imposed within the framework laid down in this Act, bearing in mind its objective, ensuring that the punishment is appropriate for the material gravity of the criminal offence, the degree of guilt, the degree of danger the perpetrator poses to society, and other mitigating and aggravating circumstances.

(2) The median value of the penalty range shall be the reference value when imposing a sentence of fixed-term imprisonment. The median value shall be equal to half of the sum of the minimum and maximum of the penalty range.

(3) If this Act provides for that the penalty ranges specified in the Special Part be increased at sentencing, the calculation specified in paragraph (2) shall be performed using the increased penalty ranges.

(4) If the court imposes a sentence of imprisonment, it shall be determined without taking the possibility of suspending the enforcement of the punishment and of release on parole into account.

Concurrent sentence

Section 81 (1) One sentence shall be imposed for concurrence of criminal offences.

(2) The most serious type of penalty and penalty range from among those applicable to the criminal offences constituting concurrence shall be the basis for imposing a concurrent sentence.

(3) If at least two of the criminal offences constituting concurrence are punishable by fixed-term imprisonment, the maximum of the applicable penalty range shall be determined by increasing the maximum of the highest penalty range of the penalty ranges applicable to the individual criminal offences by half, but it shall not reach the combined total term of the maximum of the penalty ranges applicable to the individual criminal offences.

(4) If the respective conditions are met regarding the given criminal offence, the penalty range of the criminal offence constituting concurrence shall be determined according to the provisions applicable to special, multiple or violent multiple recidivists, or to commission in a criminal organisation, before applying paragraphs (2) and (3).

(5) The secondary penalty, even in the case of a concurrent sentence, shall not exceed the highest value or period specified in the Act.

Reduction of punishment

Section 82 (1) A punishment more lenient than the penalty range may be applied if, taking the principles of sentencing into account, even its lowest level would be excessive.

(2) According to paragraph (1), if the minimum of the penalty range is

- a) ten years of imprisonment, imprisonment for at least five years,
- b) five years of imprisonment, imprisonment for at least two years,
- c) two years of imprisonment, imprisonment for at least one year,
- d) one year of imprisonment, imprisonment for a shorter period may be imposed instead.

(3) In the case specified in paragraph (2) d), imprisonment may be replaced by confinement, community service or financial penalty, or any combination of these penalties may be imposed.

(4) In the case of an attempt or abetting, if even the punishment applicable under paragraph (2) would be excessive, punishment may be imposed by applying the subsequent point of paragraph (2).

(5) If a reduction without limitation is permitted by this Act, the lowest level of any type of penalty may be imposed as well.

Sentencing in the case of plea agreement

Section 83 (1) After the approval of a plea agreement in the proceedings specified under Chapter XCIX of the Act XC of 2017 on the Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter: plea agreement), the minimum of the more lenient penalty ranges specified in section 82 (2) shall be taken as reference for sentencing.

(2) If plea agreement is approved for a defendant who, contributing to substantiating the case or another criminal case, has cooperated significantly with the prosecution service or the investigating authority, punishment may be imposed also by applying the subsequent point of section 82 (2).

Section 84

Suspension of the enforcement of a sentence of imprisonment

Section 85 (1) The enforcement of a sentence of imprisonment of not more than two years may be suspended for a probationary period if, with special regard to the personal circumstances of the perpetrator, there is reasonable ground to believe that the objective of punishment can be achieved even without enforcing it.

(2) Unless otherwise provided in this Act, the probationary period shall not be shorter than one year or longer than five years, but it shall not be shorter than the term of the imprisonment imposed. The probationary period shall be determined in years, or in years and months.

(2a) For the illegal crossing of the border fence (section 352/A of the Btk.), vandalism of the border fence (section 352/B of the Btk.), and obstructing construction works related to the border fence (section 352/C of the Btk.), the probationary period shall not be shorter than two years or longer than ten years, but it shall not be shorter than the period of expulsion imposed for committing the criminal offence concerned.

Section 86 (1) The enforcement of a sentence of imprisonment shall not be suspended if the convict

a) is a multiple recidivist,
b) committed the criminal offence in a criminal organisation, or
c) committed an intentional criminal offence before enforcement of the sentence of imprisonment was completed or during a probationary period of suspended imprisonment.
